The BF Goodrich All Terrain T/A KO2 is the fourth generation of the company's all terrain tires that were first launched some 15 years ago. Aimed at jeep, SUV and pickup truck drivers, the tire is designed for on and off road use over all terrains and will improve driving confidence by providing greater control through its all weather traction and hard wearing durability.

BFG uses a sidewall rubber compound that is twice as thick as previous versions and a lot tougher. It is a very strong and durable tire due to its twin steel belts which are reinforced with nylon and includes the company's polyester cord sidewall ply construction known as Tri-Gard.
